Sir Joseph Dalton Hooker: A Centenary Celebration

Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew

Friday 9th December 2011

A one-day conference jointly organised by the Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, the Linnean Society, the Kew Guild, and the University of Sussex.

The life and work of Sir Joseph Dalton Hooker (1817-1911) will be celebrated in a one-day meeting held at Kew Gardens. A varied programme includes five talks by leading scholars, private behind-the-scenes tours highlighting Hooker material in Kew's collections, and a reception in the Shirley Sherwood Gallery, with a private view of a special exhibition about Sir Joseph's life and work. Please see www.kew.org/jdhooker for further details.

This meeting will appeal to anyone with an interest in botany and its history, exploration, empire or, of course, Kew itself. Early booking is advised.
